The Board of Certification for the Athletic Trainer (BOC) is the certifying body administers the Athletic Training Certification Board Exam. The BOC requires graduation from a CAATE accredited athletic training program to be eligible for certification. Passing the BOC exam leads to certification as an athletic trainer. Becoming certified is required to get licensed as an athletic trainer in states that license/regulate ATs (California is the only state that in which AT is not regulated but most employers still only hire BOC Certified Athletic Trainers. A graduate of our CAATE accredited AT program that passes the BOC exam can apply for a state license to practice AT in any of the 49 states that license/regulate ATs. Getting licensed in other states beyond MA is mainly licensing paperwork fees, background check, and showing proof of BOC certification.
